World Book Day with Daisy Class!

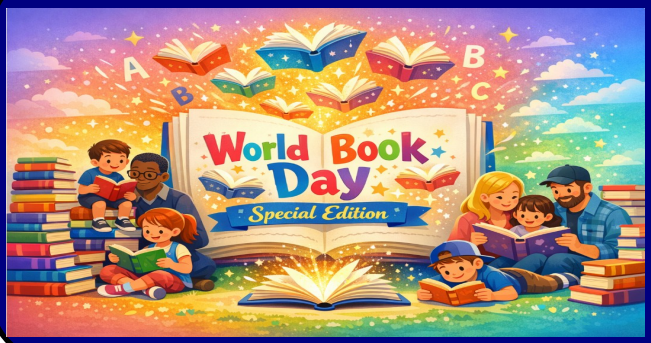

In Daisy Class we had lots of fun playing the three little pigs. We played with the pigs in the mud, we made three houses for the pigs to live in. We dressed the pigs for their journey and learnt how to make number three with the number blocks. .

Dear The Big Bad Wolf
You blew down my house and I feel Sad and angry. I am not happy at all. It made me feel Scared.
Don't blow my house down again. Be more kind and not so bad.
From The 3 Little pigs

World Book Day with Buttercups!

The children looked fantastic in their costumes to celebrate World Book Day! We had a lovely time guessing who each other were and sharing the stories together.

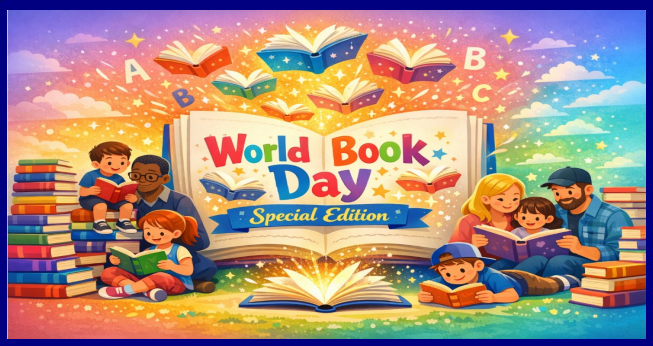

After sharing the traditional tale "The Little Red Hen" we were inspired to make some bread ourselves. We put our measuring and weighing skills into practice, following the recipe with care. We then decided to bake a roll each rather than a large loaf. We enjoyed the rolls with our lunches and they were delicious!

During the afternoon we investigated how windmills work to make the flour for bread. We then made our very own versions showing good perseverance skills.

World Book Day with Bluebell Class!

The Gingerbread Man

Bluebell Class had an incredibly busy day celebrating World Book Day!

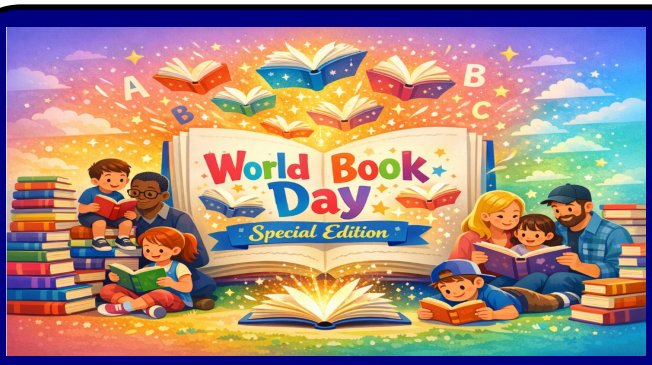

The children acted out their own version of the story using all the different storybook characters, created alternative endings, discovered what happened when gingerbread went into water, found alternative ways to cross the river and tasted gingerbread biscuits.

World Book Day with Rose Class!

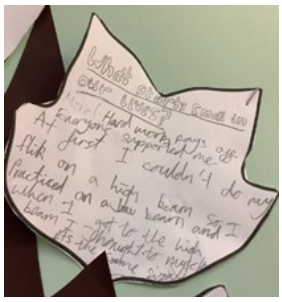

The Tortoise and the Hare

For World Book Day, Rose Class enjoyed reading and exploring the fable The Tortoise and the Hare. We discussed what a moral is and why it is an important part of a story. We then linked this idea to the Parable of the Mustard Seed, reflecting on how something can start small and grow into something strong and unique, just like a tiny seed growing into a healthy tree. We thought about how using our morals as guidance can help us grow in the same way.

We thought carefully about the question, "What started off small in my life?" and discussed how we can use our morals and values to help us grow and overcome challenges. The children shared their reflections by add-

Inspired by this learning, the children worked collaboratively to create their own fables, each including a clear moral. To bring their stories to life, they produced their own stop frame animations, building on the computing skills we have been developing in class. The children designed their settings, created their characters. Next week, they'll carefully presented the moral within their animations.

World Book Day with Sunflower Class

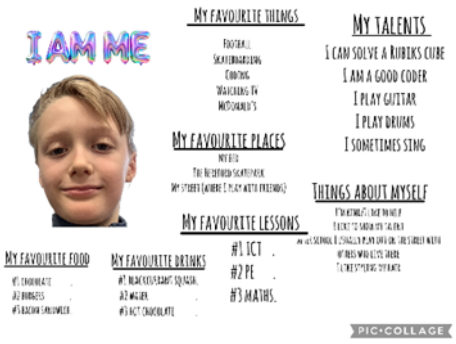

Sunflower Class have read The Crow and the Peacock which is a fable. They really enjoyed the moral of the story 'being happy just the way you are'. We discussed what makes us special through having an independent growth mindset and being unique.

The class created posters to highlight their individual qualities.

In the afternoon, we tried different media (charcoal, oil pastel and chalk) in art to create a story map of the story.

We had a fantastic day celebrating World Book Day.

We love to read.
